Strength of Business Model

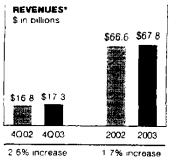

"In 2003, Verizon once again demonstrated the strength of its business model," said Chairman and CEO Ivan Seidenberg "We have been successful at increasing our revenues, our customer base and our cash flow at the same time we have been transforming our cost structure, our operational efficiency, and our mix of products and services

"We are winning customers in markets new to Verizon, such as nationwide longdistance and sophisticated data services to large businesses. In wireless, we are widening our industry lead. In broadband, we have aggressively added customers in DSL while setting a stake in the ground for new growth in 2004. Verizon has a unique leadership role to play in the new broadband and wireless era of communications."

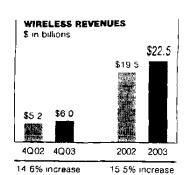

Fourth-Quarter Financial Results

Verizon's fourth-quarter 2003 operating revenues were $173 billion, up 0 7 percent from the prior year's quarter, driven by Verizon Wireless' sixth consecutive quarter of double-digit, year-over-year revenue increases. Wireless service revenue grew 13 9 percent, to $5 4 billion, from $4.7 billion in the fourth quarter 2002. Total Verizon Wireless revenue, which includes equipment and other revenue, grew 14 6 percent to $6.0 billion, from $5.2 billion in the fourth quarter 2002.

Beginning in 2003, results from Verizon's directory publishing unit have been reported using the amortization method of accounting (see Information Services section below). Applying consistent accounting treatment to directory revenues, Verizon's consolidated revenues increased 2.6 percent in the fourth quarter 2003, compared with the fourth quarter 2002.

Comparable basis, with consistent Directory accounting

Total operating expenses were $19.4 billion in the fourth quarter 2003 and include special items as well as costs, such as a 3 percent lump-sum payment, associated with contract agreements covering most of Verizon's unionized work force

Fourth-quarter special items included a $2.9 billion severance, pension and benefit charge for the voluntary separation plan, and $0.2 billion for other charges associated with environmental remediation programs and leasing operations partially offset by net gains from sales of investments

Year-End Financial Results

For the year, operating revenues totaled $678 billion in 2003, a 0.7 percent increase from 2002 on a reported basis and a 1.6 percent increase on a comparable basis Revenues, operating expenses and statistics described on a comparable basis exclude the effects of 1.27 million switched access lines that were sold during 2002. Applying consistent accounting treatment to directory revenues, Verizon's comparable revenues increased 1.7 percent in 2003, compared with 2002.

Reported 2003 earnings of $3 1 billion included net charges of $4 2 billion. These net charges include special gains of $0 5 billion related to accounting changes and the net proceeds from sales of investments. These gains were more than offset by charges, including $3 4 billion related to severance, pension and benefit costs, $0.9 billion related to Verizon's decision to sell its consolidated interest in Mexican wireless carrier Grupo lusacell, and $0.4 billion in other special items.

Reported operating expenses were $603 billion in 2003

- ▶ In the fourth quarter 2003, Verizon took another step forward in its plan to begin deploying fiber-to-the-premises systems this year by completing the selection of equipment manufacturers and suppliers for the project. The company has also unveiled plans for leadership in the emerging broadband industry, announcing that it will accelerate the evolution of its nationwide wireline network to packet-switching technology.

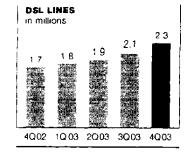

Verizon Wireless

- ▶ Record-low churn for the quarter and the year drove record net-add performance. The quarter's churn performance was even more impressive given the introduction of local number portability in November Retail churn and total churn, which includes wholesale, were 1.7 percent for the quarter. Churn in the retail post-pay segment, which is 91 percent of the company's base, was 1.3 percent for the quarter. The company sustained these customer loyalty levels throughout 2003, with total churn of 1.8 percent for the year.
- Average monthly service revenue per subscriber was $49 for the fourth quarter and for the year. Service revenue for the quarter was $5.4 billion, up 13.9 percent. Service revenue for the year was $20.3 billion, up 14.6 percent.
- The company continued its industryleading low-cost structure, as cash expense per subscriber decreased slightly over the prior-year quarter and over the prior sequential quarter. For the year, cash expense per subscriber increased less than 1 percent. a particularly significant achievement given the record volume of new subscribers
- ▶ Quarterly operating income margin remained strong at 18.5 percent. Quarterly operating income increased 11.7 percent year-over-year to $1.1 billion. Similarly strong, operating income margin for the year was 18.2 percent, on annual operating income of $4.1 billion. Segment free cash flow was $2.9 billion in 2003, a 39 percent increase compared with 2002.
- Demand for the company's growing family of data services continued to build during the fourth quarter, with data services accounting for more than 3 percent of the fourth quarter's total service revenue. Data services delivered more than 2 percent of total service revenue in 2003, up from 1 percent in 2002.

15 5% growth

- ▶ Text messaging grew to more than 550 million text messages a month, Get It NowSM BREW-based downloadable ringtones, games and exclusive content grew to 5 million downloads a month; and picture messaging grew to 3 million picture messages a month. Driving this growth, approximately one-fifth of all customers now have color handsets, and more than 50 percent have 1X-enabled phones. Yahoo! Messenger
- ▶ In a major announcement earlier this month, the company said it will immediately begin expanding its BroadbandAccess third-generation EV-DO network nationally, with service expected to be available in many cities this summer. BroadbandAccess, the fastest wireless wide-area data connection available with average user speeds of 300-500 kbps, is already offered in San Diego and Washington, D.C. The company plans to spend $1 billion over the next two years, in addition to its ongoing annual capital program, to deploy EV-DO nationally

Information Services

(Note Effective Jan. 1, 2003, Verizon changed its accounting for recognizing directory revenues and direct expenses from the publication-date method to the amortization method. The publication-date method recognizes revenues and expenses when directories are distributed. Under the amortization method, which is increasingly becoming the industry standard, revenues and expenses are recognized over the life of the directory, which is usually 12 months. This change results in a more even distribution of revenue and expenses throughout the year, and does not impact cash flow. As required by GAAP, the previous year's results have not been adjusted for this change.)

- D Verizon Information Services (VIS) revenue decreased 26 percent and 4 percent over the fourth quarter and the year, respectively, primarily due to the change from the publication-date method to the amortization method of accounting and the elimination of revenue related to sales of businesses. Excluding the effects of these items, revenues were essentially flat for both presented periods
- ▶ VIS' domestic Internet directory, SuperPages.com™, continues to achieve strong growth as demonstrated by a 33 percent increase in revenue and a 36 percent increase in searches over 2002
- Segment free cash flow was $1.1 billion in 2003, a 10 percent increase compared with 2002

▶ Equity in earnings of unconsolidated

International

businesses increased to $302 million in the fourth quarter, bringing full-year equity in earnings of unconsolidated businesses to $1.1 billion, compared with $179 million and $644 million in the fourth quarter and full-year 2002, respectively. A large portion of these increases were driven by Italian tax benefits from a reorganization and other nonoperational income at Vodafone Omnitel. favorable foreign exchange rates, and improving operational performance on a yearto-date basis, partially offset by lower year-todate gains on sales of investments Fourth-quarter revenues were $477 million. bringing full-year revenues to $1.9 billion. compared with $549 million and $2.2 billion in the fourth quarter and full-year 2002. respectively The revenue decline was primarily the result of deteriorating foreign exchange rates in the Dominican Republic.
